Portland Mayor In Second Lie Detector Test

Fails First on Subject of Accepting Bribe from Gambler

WASHINGTON (UP) — Embattled Mayor Terry D. Schrunk of Portland, Ore., hoped to take a lie detector test today in an effort to clear himself of charges he took a $500 bribe from a gambler.

He conceded he had been told he flunked a previous test on the same subject. But he wanted the new test anyway.

The Senate Rackets Committee sent Schrunk's testimony to the Justice Department to study for possible perjury after he testified Friday.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan said it was "directly in conflict" with that of other witnesses.

Probing Shady Dealings

The special committee is investigating an alleged hookup between officials of the AFL-CIO Teamsters Union, city officials and racketeers to take over vice operations in Portland.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said he would try to arrange for the mayor's lie detector test today or Monday.

Schrunk, who was sheriff of Multnomah County for seven years before being elected mayor last year with the backing of the Teamsters Union, asked Kennedy to have the test administered by the FBI instead of the Secret Service. Schrunk said he "knew" the FBI and its methods.

Zusman Fails Lie Test

The Secret Service flunked natty Nate Zusman, a Portland night club operator, when he took a test Thursday to deny testimony of committee witnesses that he encouraged setting up a bawdy house.

The 43-year-old mayor swore Friday that he did not take a $500 bribe when he was sheriff to keep him from raiding an after-hours drinking and gambling joint, the 8212 Club.

The rackets committee recessed for the week end with the announcement that much - married Clyde C. Crosby, Teamsters Union organizer for Oregon, would continue his testimony at its next session Tuesday. The present hearings will climax with the appearance of Frank W. Brewster, vice president of the Teamsters Union and head of its 11-state Western Conference.

Both Crosby and Mayor Schrunk counterattacked the committee's prize witness, Portland racketeer James B. Elkins.

Schrunk said Elkins was a narcotics addict who was out to destroy him.

Crosby said Elkins was "head of the syndicate" who joined with the Portland Oregonian — a newspaper which published an expose of alleged Teamster-rackets tieups—to make Teamster Union officials seem the villains in Portland vice operations.

Drill Instructor Faces Sentence

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (UP)—A 25-year-old Marine Corps drill instructor was convicted Friday of illegally "touching" three recruits but was cleared on 20 other counts of maltreatment.

Cpl. William R. Walsh, convicted by a special court-martial, was the 13th Parris Island drill instructor court - martialed since the "death march" drowning of six recruits last April.

The board meets today to pass sentence on the six-foot two-inch Lyndhurst, N.J., drill instructor. He faces a maximum punishment of six months in prison, a bad conduct discharge, forfeiture of all pay and reduction in rank to private.

Charleroi Youth Hurt in Crash

A 19-year-old Charleroi youth was injured yesterday in a two-car collision at the intersection of Route 40 and 71, near Cokeburg.

State police identified the youth as Edgar F. Chambers, of 707 Crest avenue. He was treated at Washington Hospital for abrasions of the knee and released, police said.

Chambers' auto collided with a car driven by Kenneth Welling, of Cleveland. Welling was unhurt, police reported.

Study of River Level Road Is Made by Officials

A preliminary study of the proposed river level road between California and Roscoe was held yesterday by California and Coal Center officials, a state legislator and highway officials.

The group travelled on foot the entire two mile distance, which has been proposed as a roadway by the Central Monongahela Valley Industrial Development Council.

The route would follow the Pennsylvania Railroad right-of-way. The PRR has removed one of the tracks.

The council has projected the relocation of Route 88 along this distance to make a new 20-acre industrial site between California and Coal Center more accessible.

Following the survey, N. G. Bell, district highway engineer, said:

"From what we have seen today I do not expect to encounter too much of a problem. Before any definite committment can be made I must secure some engineering data.

"Such a survey could be started within 10 days to two weeks. If it proves feasible you have our promise of cooperation."

Charleroi War Vets Honor Roll To Be Erected

An honor roll and ball field at Charleroi Community Park will be dedicated to the borough's war veterans, it was announced today.

A plot of ground adjacent to Charleroi Chamber of Commerce building has been deeded to the trustees of the park for the purpose of erecting an honor roll.

Joseph Lettrick and Sons have already been engaged as contractors for the memorial, a brick structure.

Construction costs will be financed from money raised through previous memorial week activities.

Veterans groups in Charleroi have also turned over $5,000 to the park trustees for completion of a baseball diamond. Preliminary work on the field was started last summer.

If any money is left in the memorial fund, it will also be used to complete the field.

Park fund trustees include C. M. Kennedy, Harold Humphries, Charles Melenyzer, Palmer McCloskey and French Fox.

Annoying Fumes Force People Out of Homes

IRONTON, Ohio (UP)—A chemical plant fire in nearby Southpoint, Ohio, today released a cloud of annoying fumes. A number of persons living nearby were forced to leave their homes.

R.E. Smith of the Allied Chemical and Dye Corp., public relations office issued a statement in which he said the 'product burning is mixed fertilizer and is not classed as an explosive.

"But," he said, "the products of combustion are toxic. Persons living in the surrounding areas have been alerted to the danger of remaining for extended periods in places where vapors are present. They can be detected readily by odor and if exposure is prolonged, it can cause irritation of the nose and throat."

The company advised persons living in the area to leave their homes if the fumes annoyed them. Several persons were sent to the MacArthur Hotel in Ironton.

There were no injuries. The amount of damage to the plant was not estimated.

The Allied Chemical and Dye Corp. said the fumes came from a fire in its fertilizer storage plant. The company said prolonged exposure to the fumes could cause an irritation of the nose and throat.

It was at first believed that the fumes were deadly. Civil Defense officials in Huntington, W. Va., eight miles away, made plans for evacuation of a part of the city.

Good weather and a strong wind, however, rapidly dissipated the fumes.

Fire departments from communities surrounding South Point fought the smouldering fire which broke out shortly after midnight. The fire was in a block long building in which loose fertilizer was stored.

Deputy sheriffs at the scene said the fumes were reddish brown. The reddish brown clouds were seen over Huntington early this morning.

Ike Signs Doctrine; Pledges U. S. Troops To Aid Middle East

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today signed his Middle East doctrine pledging the use of American troops, if necessary, to defend the oil-rich area from Communist aggression.

He called it "a further demonstration of the will of the American people to preserve peace and freedom in the world."

There was no elaborate ceremony for the historic occasion.

Mr. Eisenhower, seated at the desk in his office, signed his name to a resolution Congress approved overwhelmingly this week after two months of occasionally bitter debate over the exact wording.

As finally approved, it gave the President substantially what he requested:

—Congressional support to use U.S. troops if he feels it is necessary to resist a Communist attack.

—Authority to spend up to $200 million in already - appropriated funds to bolster Middle East economies and governments against Red-inspired subversion.

As the President signed the document, reporters were handed a 300-word, four - paragraph statement by Mr. Eisenhower hailing the event as "an important forward step" in furthering friendly relations between this country and the Mideastern nations.

The resolution, the President said, "is a further demonstration of the will of the American people to preserve peace and freedom in the world."

"The provisions of the resolution and, even more, the unity of national purpose which it reflects," he said, "will increase the administration's capabilities to contribute to reducing the Communist danger in the Middle East and to strengthening the general stability of the area."

Mr. Eisenhower said that James P. Richardson, his special ambassador and adviser, will leave for the Middle East Tuesday to explain the resolution's purposes. Once Richards' mission is completed, he said, the envoy will report back on the "most effective" ways of carrying out the program.

He said since the policies are based on the "concept of cooperation" and since the economic and military aid provided by the resolution will be extended only in response to requests from Mideast governments, "we must achieve the greatest possible measure of understanding and recognition of common interests with the area governments and their peoples."

12-year-old Admits To 200 Burglaries

DETROIT (UP)—A 13-year-old boy who admitted 200 store burglaries which netted him about $2,000 was home today on probation because technically he is a first offender.

Police picked up the youth as he was sneaking out of a beauty parlor. He told police his burglary career started when he was 8 and he pointed out 137 stores he had burglarized since he was 11, some of them several times.

His only reported offense was truancy at the age of 10.

New Earth Tremors Shake Central Greece

ATHENS, Greece (UP) — New earth tremors today shook central Greece where more than 150,000 persons spent the night outdoors in rain and cold.

The new tremors — which shook Athens itself — were milder than the shocks that hit Friday and spread destruction and injury along the Thessaly coast.

Latest official reports listed one dead, 71 injured and 3,470 homes damaged, 1,915 of them severely.

Units of the U.S. 6th Fleet stood by and offered to help but the Greek government declined with thanks.

The Greek military commander in Thessaly was appointed relief commander. Government forces rushed tents, medical supplies and food stocks into the area.

Authorities said the relative mildness of the first shock in the quake triangle 200 miles northwest of Athens provided a warning and helped cut down the casualties.

It sent villagers rushing into the streets to huddle together in a driving rain.

Eleven minutes later a tremendous shock—the strongest ever to hit the Thessaly area—brought down houses and factories and temporarily drained the Apiganos River.

The shock that hit Athens this morning caused no damage but indicated the Thessaly area might have been hit again. There was no immediate report from that section.

Twin Brothers From Somerset County Killed

GENEVA, Ohio (UP) — Twin brothers from Somerset, County, Pa., were killed near here Friday night in a three-automobile skidding collision on an icy stretch of highway.

Ronald Miller, 20, Meyersdale, Pa., was killed instantly when tossed from the car in which he was riding. His twin, Donald, died shortly after arriving at Geneva Memorial Hospital.

Ohio police said the Miller brothers, in Geneva in search of work, were riding with Robert C. Lindeman, 20, a former Meyersdale youth now living in Geneva. Lindeman lost control of his vehicle on ice-slicked Route 20.

The spinning car struck a vehicle operated by Pasquale Mauri, 46, Ashtabula, backing onto the highway, and slammed into another car driven by Paul L. Robertson, 50, Baltimore, Md.

Lindeman and Robertson escaped injury. Mauri suffered slight arm injuries.

Israel Ban in Canal Hinted By Egyptians

By UNITED PRESS

Egypt today rejected a Western proposal to split payment of Suez Canal tolls, and raised threats of a new Mideast crisis with a strong hint that Israeli shipping will be barred from the vital waterway.

Egyptian Information Director Abdel Kdar Hatem said in Cairo that Egypt will demand payment of full canal tolls.

"Attempts by certain countries to escape payment of tolls or part of these tolls is an open violation of the 1888 convention," Hatem said. "Furthermore, it would be a usurpation of Egypt's legitimate rights."

An expanded version of his statement heard in a Cairo Radio broadcast monitored in London had him adding that Egypt "has emphasized and is still emphasizing" the execution of the 1888 canal convention "in letter and spirit."

It is under one of the clauses of this treaty that Egypt has barred Israeli shipping from the waterway since 1948. The clause allowed tht old Ottoman Empire, of which Egypt was a part in 1888, to bar its enemies from the canal in time of war.

Since Egypt still considers itself in a state of war with Israel—despite the 1949 armistice agreement which ended actual hostilities—it has continued to act in accordance with a technical condition of belligerency.

Interim Proposal Inconsistent

Hatem did not mention Israeli shipping directly. But he said the Western "interim" proposal to pay half of the canal tolls to Egypt and half to the World Bank "are not consistent with the 1888 convention."

"If there are reports today of proposals aimed at raising the question of the Suez Canal and freedom of navigation in it," Hatem said, "this can be understood as an attempt by those who violated this convention to put forward an artificial Suez Canal problem—a problem which must not be raised anew."

Western diplomats, however, voiced fears that there would be more violence in the Middle East dispute if Egypt continues to block Israeli shipping from the canal.

The diplomats, before leaving for their homelands from United Nations headquarters, said there must be a quick and satisfactory solution to some of the Mideast's political problems to follow the "tactical" achievement of getting Isreal out of Egypt.

Israeli foreign ministry sources said Thursday Israel intends to "force the Suez Canal dispute into the open" by sending the 3,500-ton ship Mars from Haiva enroute to Burma through the canal as soon as it is cleared. That could touch off an explosion when the canal is clear for ships of that tonnage.

Egypt Friday opened the waterway to "all shipping" up to 500-tons providing they pay tolls di-

Can't Afford Wife for Cows

DETROIT (UP) — Cecil L. Hovis told the judge he couldn't afford to pay his wife $60 a week temporary alimony and feed his 20 horses, 75 chickens and three cows.

He said he couldn't sell the livestock to pay his wife because she had got a court injunction preventing him from disposing of personal property.

His wife, Muriel, said she sued him for divorce because he spent more time and money on his farm animals than on his family.

The judge gave Hovis two choices Friday—pay up or be penned up. Hovis took the 60-day jail sentence.

Bandit Straps Dynamite Sticks To His Waist

MONTREAL (UP)—A young bandit entered a bank with dynamite strapped to his waist Friday and threatened to "blow up the works" unless given "all the money in the bank."

Minutes later, as he fidgeted with a crude switch, the bandit was wounded in the neck by a police marksman firing through a bank window.

He was identified as Andre DeBlois, 21.

A key in DeBlois' pocket led police to a bomb he had placed in a locker at the Canadian National Railways Central Station. An explosives expert dismantled the device which was ticking although it had been timed to go off earlier.

Police said the bomb, fashioned of five sticks of dynamite and an alarm clock, "could have killed 1,000 people and rocked the whole building" had it gone off.

PRR Ordered To Eliminate Danger Areas

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad was ordered today by the Public Utility Commission to eliminate dangerous working conditions in three of its yards in the New Castle area.

The railroad was directed to realign and resurface tracks in the three yards cited to increase clearance for employes and trains passing in opposite directions on adjoining tracks. It was also ordered to install proper lighting, drainage and safe footing for employes. The PUC ordered the work completed by Jan. 1, 1958.

The PUC order upheld a complaint by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen charging unsafe conditions existed in the railroad's Fairgrounds, Middle and New yards. The commission dismissed a contention that close clearances created hazards in a fourth yard on the Pennsylvania's Bessemer Branch near the city.

Drunk Driver Leads Police on Wild Chase

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A drunk driver fleeing from an accident led police on a bullet-punctuated 70 - mile - an - hour chase Friday night.

The pursuit finally ended after 10 miles with five wrecked cars, three persons at a hospital for treatment and a Homestead motorist under arrest for a long list of violations.

The chase began, police said, when Arthur Benson, 35, Homestead, became involved in an automobile accident in Highland Park.

Officers Edgar Ellenbogen and John Keyho, assigned to the park police detail drove up to investigate. Keyho got out of the cruiser to talk to the drivers when Benson suddenly gunned his car and headed off.

"I had to jump out of the way fast or he would have run me down," Keyho said.

Benson sped through the park, across the Highland Bridge, turned left on Route 28 and headed into Aspinwall. "I emptied my gun at him, six shots, but he still wouldn't stop," Keyho said.

Blawknox, Aspinwall and O'Hara Twp. police joined in the chase.

"About 10 miles from the start, we finally caught up with him, a little past Powers Run Rd.," Keyho said.

"We tried to force him to the side of the road."

But, the officers said, Benson swerved his car to the left, nudging the police cruiser into the path of a car operated by Raymond Baer, 52.

Benson's car, in turn, rebounded into the path of cars operated by Raymond Bosnick, 28, and Alvin Brown, 22, of Harwick, Pa.

Police ambulances took Ellenbogen, a nephew of Allegheny County Judge Henry Ellenbogen: Keyho and Brown to Pittsburgh Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises.

Benson, pronounced drunk by a physician, was charged with hit and run, resisting arrest, assault with an automobile, reckless driving, operating without an owners card and with a restricted drivers license, passing traffic lights and stop signs, and leaving the scene of an accident.

He will get a hearing Monday.

SMALL HOUSE PLANNING Design C 436

Blanket of Snow Is Pain to Some People

The poets may wax lyrical about the beauties of a winter snowfall, but to the average householder, a heavy blanket of snow on his walks and driveways is just a pain in the neck — or it may be a pain in the back.

Actually, the householder who escapes with only a pain in the back is the lucky one. Every heavy snowfall brings with it a toll of fatalities from heart attacks resulting from shoveling snow, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Thus it is good news to householders that the old snow shovel can take its place in the museum. Pushing a button will do the trick, thanks to research.

A snow melting system consisting of pipe coils can be built into the walks and driveways or any other place where snow isn't wanted. Hot water, heated indirectly by a heat exchanger connected with the house heating oiler in the basement or utility room, is circulated through the coils.

Whenever snow falls, all the householder does is to throw a switch. The heat from the coils warms the paving, and presto, the snow disappears.

Tests at the University of Illinois in a Research Home maintained by The Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers have shown that it costs only about 6 cents an hour to run the snow melting system. That, according to the Bureau, is less than it would cost to hire a boy to do it.

'Do-it-yourself' Craze not New

The currently popular "do-it-yourself" craze isn't new, it has merely become popular.

The West Coast Lumbermen's Association reminds us that a generation or so back, every able-bodied man could handle a hammer and saw. This generation has become the age of specialization so no wonder, the lumbermen say, man is surprised when he rediscovers the use of his hands.

Lumber has always been easy to work, een by an amateur, and is probably one reason why young husbands and even brides are becoming wood-using fans.

Help Your Chickens

Chickens are more productive and consume less feed when they are kept more comfortable in shelters insulated with mineral wool, according to tests conducted at Iowa State College.

The tests showed that hens in well - insulated buildings lay 16 more eggs per year and consume 6.1 pounds less food than hens kept in non-insulated buildings.

Cedar Closets Help Resale of Homes

Clothes closets lined with aromatic re cedar closet lining increase the value of any home at resale time. Many housewives rank cedar closets second only to attractive and efficient kitchens as quality features they want in their homes. Cedar closets may easily be installed by the home handyman in only a few hours of spare time.

The cost of replacing one moth-damaged suit would more than pay for installing a moth-repellent cedar coset. Aromatic red cedar closet lining is sold at most lumber yards in easy-to-carry packages.

Quality Important In Home

Quality is more apparent in new home construction this year than in the past. Surveys by leading home builders show that many families are now ready to move out of their first homes and into bigger and better dwellings.

Growing families with rising incomes are sparking the market for homes with at least three bedrooms, large kitchens, plenty of closets and at least two baths.

If they can afford it, these young families also want larger living rooms, equipped with fireplaces, kitchens decked out with built-in appliances and a wide variety of other so-called luxuries which soon may be regarded as necessities in the modern American home.

A quality feature that is fast gaining popularity is the cedar-lined closet. Many builders across the country are lining all of their closets with aromatic red cedar closet lining. Women are attracted to the beauty of this wood and its ability to repel moths.

Actually, cedar closets are no longer luxuries, for when installed as part of original construction, these closets cost little if any more than closets with plastered walls.

Kitchens, of course, generally receive first attention when the family is house hunting. The mother knows that, as in days of old, family life still centers around the kitchen. With youngsters and friendly neighbors about, she wants a kitchen large enough to serve as a social center, as well as the place where meals are prepared.

Protect Roofs With Type of Asphalt Shingle

In all seasons the roof takes more punishment than any other exterior surface of a house. In summer, the hot sun gives the roof a beating. In spring and fall, heavy rains pummel it, and in winter, sleet, snow and ice grind away at the roofing material.

To give roofs the greatest protection possible from the weather, asphalt shingle manufacturers combine two natural materials which strongly resist the weather — asphalt and stone.

Even in the present atomic age, science has failed to find a better waterproofing agent than asphalt, which is the basic ingredient of asphalt shingles.

Stone, which is applied to the surface of the shingles in tough granules colored by a ceramics process, is nature's most wear-resistant material. Besides guarding against undue wear from the impact of rain, sleet, snow and ice, the rock particles are opaque, keeping the sun's rays out of the asphalt.

VEGETABLE TRAYS — When planning your kitchen, you will need handy vegetable storage close to sink and food preparation center. Here is an idea for sliding, airy trays used to store room vegetables and fruits. These trays are easy to construct from fir when building the rest of your wood cabinets.

Make Use of Louver Doors In Remodeling

Installing louver doors between rooms and on closets is an idea worth some serious consideration, whether you are building a house, remodeling or simply redecorating inside.

Louver doors, with their tilted slats, offer at least three special advantages to home-owners:

1. Air conditioning is more efficient with louver doors of ponderosa pine, since the cooled air circulates more readily from room to room. Temperatures are more even. The same advantage holds true with winter heating.

2. The "textured" appearance of the louvers adds interest to any decorating scheme, giving it warmth and charm. The clear ponderosa pine can be painted or stained to fit in with traditional, modern, or contemporary interiors.

3. The tilted slats, which shut out light but let air circulate freely are a boon to closets and storage areas. The movement of air prevents musty odors and deters moths.

Louver doors of ponderosa pine are available from building materials dealers in standard styles.

Re-roof Barns with Asphalt Shingles

Many farmers who take pride in the appearance of their farms have re-roofed their barns, livestock sheds and other buildings asphalt shingles in a color to match the roofs of their homes.

The matching roofs help give the buildings unity, keeping them from looking scattered.

Leading a list of 14 favorite colors for home decorating are pastel yellows, corals, aquas, blues and wood tones, according to a California pigment manufacturer.

Built-in Workshop Alongside Carport

The grass is always greener just over the hill, and the man who thought he was getting a bargain when he bought a basementless home a few years ago, now longs for a workshop.

Well, here's good news for this workshop fan without a workshop. Architects have developed a handy little workshop complete with workbench as part of the walls of the carport.

This particular design can be adopted to suit each individual carport. Basically, the workshop is built right into the storage walls of the carport. Bench, vise, power saw and other equipment fit into a snug compartment which can be closed and locked when not in use.

Baseboard Heating Efficient

Perimeter: The whole outer boundary of a body or figure, or the measure of the same.

Baseboard heating covers "the whole outer boundary" of a room with a curtain of gentle warmth.

Thus baseboard heating is one of the most efficient forms of perimeter heating because it creates a barrier of gentle warmth against the incoming cold along every exposed wall, according to the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Baseboard heating provides uniform warmth with minimum floor-to-ceiling temperature difference, thus assuring the lowest possible fuel cost with no sacrifice of usable floor space.

More than 50 manufacturers are now producing various kinds of baseboard heating systems for use with hot water boilers and forced circulation.

The growing popularity of this form of heating is due to the fact that it provides a low-level source of heat that is unobtrusive and does not interfere with furniture arrangements.

Many older houses are being brought up-to-date by the replacement of old-style bulky radiation by modern baseboard heating. In modernization work, the existing wooden baseboard is replaced by the heating baseboard.

$300 Snow Melter

It cost about $300 to install a snow melting system in the average 50-foot driveway, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Use Natural Tones In Wood Decorations

Take advantage of the natural color tones of wood when planning your interior decoration, advises the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

There were ten tables of cards in play Thursday evening when the Ladies Auxiliary to American Legion Post 659 held a card party in the Legion Home.

Special awards were won by Mrs. Von Ewart and Mrs. Beatrice Pierce. The guest award was won by Audrey Fauvie and five hundred awards were won by Audrey Fauvie, William Pierce, Mrs. Amy Boyer and Velma Renner. Euchre awards were won by Thelma Smock, R. M. Mollard and Joseph Guoth.

Serving on the committee were May Mitchell, Mary Mollard, Mary Riskey, Catherine Perry, Charlotte Horrell, Audrey Fauvie, Emma Jarvis and Ann Banjor.

Another part is planned for next Thursday.

OFF FOR NEW HOME — Mrs. William Neil, holding her youngest son, Donald, along with her other children (l. to r.) Emmy Lou, Fred, Margie, John and Mary Kay, will leave for Alaska Monday to join her husband Sergeant Neil, who has been serving there since last October. The family lived at Fort Jackson, S C., after returning from three years in Germany and is visiting here with relatives. They leave from Pittsburgh and will live in Anchorage.

HOW CHRISTIAN SCIENCE HEALS

"A GOD AT HAND"

8:45 a. m. 940 K. C. | Sunday WESA

Mrs. George Guest, of Fairhope, left today for North Canton, O., to visit her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Pierson. Mrs. Pierson will undergo a throat operation.

Local Wife, Six Children to Join Husband in Alaska

Mrs. William Neil, the former Lorrain Williams of Belle Vernon, is visiting her father, A. D. Williams, of Broad avenue, before she and her six children leave to join their husband and father, Master Sgt. William Neil at Anchorage, Alaska.

Accompanying Mrs. Neil from South Carolina, where the family lived at Fort Jackson for the past two and a half years, were her children, Mary Kay, 12; Emmy Lou, 11; Freddie, 8, Margie, 7, John, 4 and Donnie, eight months

Next Monday morning the family will leave Pittsburgh by plane for Fort Lawton, Wash., from where they will sail aboard the USN James O'Hara for Port of Whittier, Alaska. The sea journey will require three days and the party will be met at Whittier by Sgt. Neil, who left South Carolina last October for his Alaska post

He has secured quarters for his family at Fort Richardson and they plan to remain in Alaska for an indefinite period. Sergeant Neil enlisted in 1940 and has served in the army for the past 17 years. He has three and a half years of his present enlistment yet to serve

Good Travelers

Mrs. Neil has traveled with her husband since shortly after their marriage in 1942. The family lived in South Carolina for two a half years after returning from three years spent in Germany.

Mrs. Neil reports all six children are good travelers with the exception of Freddie, who experiences moments of discomfort as a plane takes off. This is attributed by his mother as an aftermath of his experience as a baby, five and a half years ago, when he, his mother and three sisters, Mary Kay, Emmy Lou and Margie were enroute to Germany.

The plane on which they were traveling left Westover, Mass three times and had to return due to engine trouble. After the next take off the plane got too far when trouble developed and had to land at Labrador. Here Mrs Neil's hands were frostbitten, but she was permitted to continue her journey

For six days their plane tried to land in Germany, but weather would not permit and each night they were sent back to some other country On Christmas Eve the family boarded a hospital plane in Preswick, Scotland, but before the double decker plane took off it caught fire and everyone had to abandon ship Freddie and his sister Margie had to share a life preserver as they were tossed to safety.

That night the commanding officer at Preswick entertained the two older girls and notified Sergeant Neil of his family's plight. On Christmas day, 1951 it was decided to divide the plane passengers in different groups and make another effort to land. This time they were successful despite the winter weather conditions Christmas was spent in their own quarters in Germany around a small Christmas tree anxiously awaited their arrival.

One of the Neil's sons, Johnnie, was born in Germany and eight-month-old Donnie was born in South Carolina.

Sergeant Neil informed his family that now there is daylight at Anchorage for about four or five hours each day and there has been about six inches of snow and a temperature of about 16 degrees below zero.

Still they are all looking forward to the reunion and their new army home in Alaska.

STOP and THINK

before you make this move

Every day, salesmen are calling on local people urging them to purchase, that very day, a family cemetery lot, sight unseen, and in partially developed ground. In other cities, similar offers include an underground burial vault, a marker, and a complete funeral service as a package proposition. And the local effort might reach this stage.

You may be approached next.

While we strongly advocate the wisdom of selecting and paying for all these in advance of need, we can only warn you that decisions of this importance deserve careful, thoughtful consideration. Once made, they stand for all time.

Don't make them under pressure or impulse!

Your traditional monument cemetery official, your local monument dealer and your funeral director all stand ready to render you sympathetic assistance in the proper selection of a site, a protective vault, a memorial and a service your family will never forget.

Take the time to consult them all.

Take care that your cemetery doesn't forbid you the privilege of erecting a fitting memorial of granite or marble.

Cash and Carry Prize Is Offered

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Captain W. M. Dickey, commander of U.S. Naval support units at the South Pole, Thursday wired an offer to donate the consolation prize in the first national gin rummy tournament being played here. Capt. Dickey said the only requirement was that the winner would have to come to the Antarctic and pick up the prize an iceberg nearly 25 miles long, 10 miles wide and 100 feet above water.

Dog Spoils Search

ATLANTA (UP) — Police called off a search of a suspected site of an illegal whiskey cache because of a black cocker spaniel. Detective W. K. Perry said he was trying to reach a second-floor apartment when the dog, a mother guarding her puppies, sank her teeth in his leg. Perry went to a hospital for treatment and police gave up the search.

The grand lodge convention this year will be held June 9-11.

A large delegation of members will attend the joint rally to be held on April 6, at Carnegie under the sponsorship of the Judicial planning board.

Tax Package Deadline Set

Hope for Thursday Passage

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Senate Finance Committee struggled with "clarifying amendments" today in a time table battle to ready the Republican sponsored $995-million General Fund tax package for passage in that chamber Thursday.

Sen. Edward J. Kessler (R-Lancaster), committee chairman, said the package and amendments would be presented to GOP leaders here Sunday night.

"If they go along with the amendments we're okay; if not, the committee will have to go back and do some more work," Kessler said. The committee planned to work through the weekend to meet the deadline.

Kessler said particular attention was given to clarifying the 3 per cent sales tax language because "we want the tax interpreted as its authors intended."

Kessler said the committee has under consideration an amendment to lessen the impact of the sales tax on automobile owners moving into the state.

Under the present law, a person registering his vehicle in the state must pay the full 3 per cent tax on the purchase price of his vehicle in his home state, if the vehicle was bought after March 6, 1956. Only persons who paid a similar tax in their former residence are exempt.

Market Value Limit

The amendment being studied by the committee would limit the tax to the market value of the vehicle at the time the vehicle is registered here.

Sen. Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford), Republican floor leader, said the Senate would stay in session until Thursday if it appeared the package could be passed.

House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean) promised swift consideration of the revised package after it clears the Senate. "We want to put those revenue bills on the governor's desk at the earliest possible moment," he said.

Johnson said the bills would go to the governor during the week of March 18 if the Republican time table runs on schedule.

The package, passed earlier in the House, includes extension of the sales tax for two more years without the stamp plan method of collection; reenactment of the 6 per cent corporate net income tax, the 1 per cent real estate transfer tax, the 14 mill tax on gross receipts of public utilities and the one cent added to the cigaret tax by the 1955 Legislature, to keep the levy at five cents per pack.

Senate Republican leaders indicated they would move more slowly on gasoline tax legislation to meet Gov. George M. Leader's $720-million highways program. The House wrote out the one cent emergency tax, cutting the levy to five cents per gallon after June 1. However, Leader asked for a permanent six cents tax to help finance the program.

The Senate returns Monday at 3 p.m. and the House at 4:30 p.m.

Wants School Buildings Used As Polling Places

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Allegheny County Board of Commissioners has proposed that election days be made school holidays to facilitate the use of school buildings as polling places.

The commissioners said they will seek bi-partisan support in the Legislature for a bill to be drafted by the county law department. If adopted, the proposal would give school children holidays on both primary and general election days.

The measure was proposed by Will E. Alton, county elections director, who pointed out the election bureau had been forced to locate polling places in such places as garages and basements of private homes because of crowded school conditions.

"We feel that on election day, the voter is the person to be accommodated and that all other civic activities should assist in the performance of this paramount privilege and duty," Alton said.

Army Station in Korea Destroyed

SEOUL (UP)—An early morning fire destroyed a U.S. Army signal relay station near Taejon, 90 miles south of Seoul, Friday, it was disclosed today.

An 8th Army spokesman said damage was estimated at $100,000. There were no casualties. The spokesman said a malfunctioning stove caused the fire at "Richmond Site."

Tale of a Hat

DETROIT (UP)—Shirley Komer, 32, sent her brown suede coat to the dyer to be dyed pink and sent along a pink suede hat to give the dyer the idea of the shade she wanted. The dyer dyed the hat brown instead. Mrs. Komer sent it back and asked that it be redyed pink. The hat was sent to a new York dying specialist and was lost. Mrs. Komer collected $327.50 in damages.

By UNITED PRESS

Mississippi college officials meet today to decide the fate of a Negro college suddenly deserted by all 570 students protesting a professor's "Uncle Tom-type" role in the South's segregation struggles.

As the Mississippi college board gathered in Jackson, Miss., attorneys for a Daytona Beach, Fla., Negro trying to enter an all-white university studied a ruling by the Florida Supreme Court which upheld the state's right to reject the Negro's request for admission.

Charges in Louisiana that the Communists are behind NAACP integration drives added to the increasing segregation tension in Dixie.

Ghost Campus Overnight

Mississippi Gov. J. P. Coleman said that little Alcorn A & M College, which turned into a ghost campus Friday, would reopen this summer "with a new set of students."

The entire student body left following a prayer meeting Friday, saying they had no other choice as "honorable Americans."

The students were protesting newspaper articles by history teacher Clennon King, 36, who said that there was no basis for charges that Negroes were persecuted in Mississippi and urged a "go-slow" policy on integration.

In Florida, attorneys for Virgil Hawkins read a state Supreme Court decision to decide if they want to appeal a high court decision in order to continue Hawkins' fight to enter the University of Florida Law School.

The Florida court ruled in a split, 5-2, decision that Hawkins' admission to the white college at this time would create "public mischief" and that it was within Florida's "sovereign" powers to deny him admission in order to keep the peace.

Former Red Testifies

A Negro who admitted serving the Communist Party told a Louisiana legislative committee in Baton Rouge that the NAACP is "nothing more than a vehicle for the Communist Party."

Manning Johnson, who said he quit the Communists in 1940, also told the committee that the Rev. Martin Luther King, Negro integration leader in Montgomery, Ala., is leading the Negro "on a road to bloodshed and violence.

"I am not saying King is a Communist," Johnson said, "but I am saying that he is doing the Negro considerable harm."

rectly to the Egyptian government.

Observers in Cairo were certain, however, this did not apply to Israeli ships which Egypt blocked prior to the invasion last October on the grounds a "state of war" exists between the two countries.

A dozen small ships steamed down the 101-mile waterway today, carefully skirting two major sunken vessels which the Egyptian government has not permitted the U. N. slavage fleet to work on. Until these wrecks are out larger vessels will not be able to use the canal.

Clearing Crews Ready

U N. officials in Egypt waited expectantly today for word that they could start clearing them now that the U.N. Emergency Force has taken over the Gaza Strip and the Sharm El Sheikh areas from Israeli forces.

Egyptian officials expected U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to arrive in Cairo next week for talks about a long-range settlement on the whole Middle East problem.

In Washington, U. S. officials said Egypt's apparent move to bar Israeli shipping violates at least two U. N. Security Council actions.

Washington officials also were concerned about the Egyptian announcement that Egypt would insist that it alone collect canal tolls.

East Pittsburgh Fire Destroys Four Buildings

EAST PITTSBURGH (UP) — A general alarm fire burned out a small hotel and three combination business-apartment buildings here today.

Occupants of the buildings escaped the flames and no one was hurt. Damage was not estimated immediately, but firemen said it would run into the thousands of dollars.

The blaze broke out about 4:30 a.m. in a clothing store and quickly spread to the other structures on Braddock Ave., near the big East Pittsburgh plant of Westinghouse Electric Corp.

At least 15 persons were evacuated from the three-story Gottlieb Hotel. In addition to the clothing store where the fire started, the flames also burned out another clothing establishment and a jewelry store, as well as the hotel.

We Must Accept Somebody's Word

FLOURIDATION, a subject which has become pertinent in this vicinity in recent weeks, is the kind of topic about which public discussion and debate can be useful only up to a certain point. This is because, in the last analysis, it comes down to an evaluation of scientific information.

Only a very few people are competent, on the basis of their own knowledge, to express an opinion as to whether the addition of fluorides in controlled amounts to public water supplies will reduce tooth decay in children without bad side-effects. Indeed, only a few dentists and physicians have themselves participated in the studies and experiments from which their information about fluoridation has come.

What this means is that, at some point in all problems of public health, the professions and the public must both take somebody's word that this or that development is beneficial.

It was on the basis of somebody's word that vaccination would prevent smallpox that such vaccination was made compulsory.

The medical profession had to take the word of men like Pasteur and Lister that germs could cause disease, and their word is the basis of all our laws involving public sanitation.

We had to take somebody's word that the addition of chlorine to water supplies was necessary. Now we drink chlorinated water habitually and think nothing of it.

We could cite countless other examples. It is being seriously proposed in the Pennsylvania Assembly right now that inoculatation with Dr. Salk's vaccine be compulsory for school children. Which means that again we are beginning to take somebody's word that a sicientific discovery is important enough to be made a public health requirement.

SO IT IS with fluoridation. The responsible authorities in the medical and dental professions have accepted it and endorsed it without qualification. So have all the responsible authorities in the field of public health.

A small but very vocal group tells us that these authorities don't know what they are talking about. Fluorides added to the water supply, they say, will harm us seriously. And they do their best to prevent this important discovery from being put to use.

The question is: who's word are we going to take in this matter, since as individuals we are not competent to evaluate the scientific data?

It seems to us that the whole history of medical science suggests that we must take the word of those who have devoted their lives to these problems. Where would we be today had we not listened to those who have unlocked the secrets of countless of man's afflictions and who have shown him in countless ways how to preserve life and health?

Justice Ill-served

A COMMITTEE of the State Assembly is doing well to investigate the manner in which some figures in the Erie bribery scandal of 1954, including former Mayor Thomas W. Flatley, were released from prison even before their minimum sentences had been served. We have long felt that justice was poorly served in these cases.

The committee has encountered conflicting evidence as to the part which Gov. George M. Leader played in the premature release of ex-Mayor Flatley. A former Erie newspaper editor, now a state employe, has testified that Governor Leader, before recommending an early pardon for Flatley, made inquiries in Erie to ascertain what the public reaction might be.

The Governor has denied this in a statement, but whether the committee will ask him to make the denial under oath has not been decided. It is doubtful whether the Governor could be required to testify in a legislative investigation.

Flatley was the most prominent of several Erie political figures and police officials involved in the case. It was proven in court that professional racketeers had succeeded in bribing the mayor and other officials in order to permit rackets and vice to operate without interference from the Erie police. It was exactly the kind of collaboration between organized crime and politics which had so revolted the nation when it was exposed in city after city by the Kefauver investigation in 1951.

Flatley was sentenced to a minimum term of 18 months in jail. But on the recommendation of Governor Leader, the State Pardons Board released the ex-mayor in just over 11 months.

We recall observing at the time that this seemed to be a poor way to make an example of a public official who had betrayed a solemn trust. And we think even less of the Pardon Board's action if it was, as now seems quite evident, a piece of political monkeyshines. Miscarriages of justice, it seems, occur not only in courtrooms; it is one thing to send a crooked politician to jail and another thing to keep him there for the duration of his sentence.

Merry-Go-Round—

Ex-Refugee In Fabulous Stock Deals

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Most important stock manipulation in years has been going on under the nose of the Securities and Exchange Commission with that agency, charged with policing the stock market, holding no public hearings. It has, however, collected a lot of interesting data available to the public.

Mr. Pearson

The manipulation involves the proxy battle between Hitler-refugee Leopold Silberstein and his Penn-Texas Co. on one side and the old-line American family firm of Fairbanks-Morse on the other.

Fairbanks-Morse, whose scales have been a familiar sight on railroad platforms, farms, and factories for half a century, is fighting against being swallowed by a refugee who fled from Hitler to Holland around 1932, then went to England, Australia, Shanghai, and thence to the USA. In approximately 10 years since he has been in the United States, he has built up one of the 500 largest industrial combines of the nation, and is now trying to take over Fairbanks-Morse.

Silberstein is a likable gentleman, whose status as a refugee has aroused sympathy and won him friends. However, his financial wizardry has raised the question of whether he is practicing the same tactics in the USA which have given capitalism a bad name in Europe.

Silberstein is head of Penn-Texas, the holding company which he developed and which now owns a dozen firms, most of them having defense orders from the government. As president and chairman, he draws a $75,000 salary, plus expenses and a house.

Commissions to Son-in-law

He also operates a company called UNO Equities Corp., of which he owns 96 per cent. UNO is a brokerage firm, actually not much more than a telephone and a set of books.

SEC records show that UNO buys and sells securities that are being acquired by the Penn-Texas Co. It buys securities on the outside, then sells them to Penn-Texas on the inside, taking a commission on the sale.

Thus Silberstein operates a brokerage company, which, with the inside knowledge available from him, can make money from his transactions on behalf of Penn-Texas.

SEC records are quite clear on this. Anybody can take a look at them. The only trouble is that the average investor can't take time to go down to the SEC, dig out the records and read them.

However, here are some of the transactions, admitted by Silberstein, officially recorded by the SEC.

Between Feb. 3, 1956, and Jan. 31, 1957, Silberstein bought for UNO 50,600 shares of Fairbanks-Morse stock for $2,595,349.13. This stock was then resold to Penn-Texas, of which Silberstein is president, with a commission paid to his UNO Equities.

Another transaction on file with the SEC involves Peter Cats, son-in-law of Silberstein, who is a customers man with the brokerage firm of Francis I. Du Pont and Co. During the same period — February '56 through January '57 — according to SEC records, Cats bought 63,300 shares of Fairbanks-Morse stock for $3,019,960.17 and sold it to Penn-Texas, on a commission basis.

It might be argued that what Silberstein's son-in-law does on the stock market is his business. However, an affidavit filed by Cats shows that he listed himself as an official financial adviser to Penn-Texas, in which case he should be giving Penn-Texas the benefit of his financial advice, not making a broker's profit at the expense of Penn-Texas.

Silberstein has acquired for Penn-Texas over 550,000 shares of Fairbanks-Morse stock worth over $25,000,000. Most of it was first acquired through his son-in-law, Peter Cats, then resold to Swiss operators, who resold to Penn-Texas with Silberstein's son-in-law making a commission.

If this were done by anyone in government a howl would go up from Congress and there would be a public investigation. However, the SEC has held no public investigation. It has secured some facts, belatedly, and they are on record for the public to read if they want to take a trip to the SEC.

Money to Burn

From Washington—

Resistance to the President

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The trend of recent events shows that President Eisenhower is going to have recurring trouble with Congress.

What is immediately visible is that Mr. Eisenhower faces a more critical Congress — a Congress more resistant to his proposals for the conduct of foreign policy — than at any time since his first election.

Mr. Drummond

The decisive Senate approval, 72 to 19, of the Eisenhower Doctrine in the Middle East is profoundly welcome to the White House, but it would be misleading to look upon this vote as much of a presidential victory. It was a presidential defeat at several points — and casts its shadow ahead.

It would be premature to say that anything like stalemate between the White House and Congress is in the making. It isn't. Neither side wants stalemate. What is happening is this:

The Democratic leaders are not pliantly going to say yes to the President every time he asks for something. This is not unexpected. There will be no massive opposition. There will be selective opposition and now that Mr. Eisenhower can't run again, there is going to be a little more "politics as usual."

GOP Closes Ranks

There is some compensation for the President. As Democratic opposition increases, there is a tendency among the Republicans to close ranks and increase their support. This has been evident throughout the voting on the Middle East resolution.

Fifty-eight days from presentation to passage cannot be considered very responsive on the part of Congress to the "urgent" appeal Mr. Eisenhower made for "prompt" concurrence in his plan to give economic aid and military protection to the Middle East nations. A Republican Congress did better than that in approving the "Truman Doctrine" for military and economic aid to Greece and Turkey in 1947.

There are other manifestations of congressional independence of and resistance to the President. For reasons which were completely arguable, the Senate Democratic leaders re-wrote the Eisenhower resolution to put the full responsibility upon the President for use of force in the Middle East if he deems it necessary.

At another point a Democratically sponsored amendment to empty the Middle East resolution of the economic aid provision got 28 ovtes, which cannot fail to give the White House grave concern about what may happen to the economic aid appropriations which lie ahead.

Sanctions Opposed

Finally, there was the overwhelming upsurge of congressional opposition to the prospect that President Eisenhower would support U. N. sanctions against Israel. Here both parties were united against the White House. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson wrote Secretary Dulles a strong letter saying that Congress would never accept such a course and Republican Senate Leader William Knowland threatened to resign from the American delegation to the United Nations if sanctions were approved by the administration.

Most correspondents doubted that the administration would in the end ever have gone along with sanctions, but the vigorous attitude of the Senate had the effect of striking from the President's hands an instrument of pressure which he was seeking to use on Premier Ben-Gurion.

The unusually solid Republican support for the President on the Middle East resolution is the only encouraging development which the President can find in this whole sequence of events. Only five Republicans joined the 23 Democrats who voted for the amendment deleting flexibility in economic aid. Only three Republicans voted with the 16 Democrats against the resolution itself.

Voters Behind Ike

All the public opinion polls continue to show that the voters decisively support the President's conduct of foreign policy. If this support holds and the Republicans conclusively back the President, then the Republican party may be putting itself in an exceedingly advantageous position for the election next year.

But it remains to be seen whether this Republican support will hold. Senator Knowland has already indicated that he will try to cut Mr. Eisenhower's foreign aid program.

Can Inequality and America Both Survive?

By HARRY R. PORE, Jr.

One does not need to be in some of our Southern states for very long before he senses the rigidity which has set in on the issue of racial integration in the public schools as prescribed by the Supreme Court's famous decisions.

About seven states seem to have set their faces resolutely against allowing Negro and white children attend the same schools. Not only are they doing nothing — literally nothing — to comply with the law; they are making the most strenuous and ingenious arrangements not to comply.

It is going to take wiser heads than mine, I'm sure, to find a satisfactory way out of this impasse without a collision of some kind. And perhaps, with the passage of time, this wisdom will begin to emerge. But just now I see no chance of accomplishing integration in these states without the use of force of some kind; and no responsible person is suggesting that force should be used or even that it would work.

Like many other Northern Americans who are troubled by the situation and who do not see a clear way through to the end of it, I have tried to understand this Southern rigidity. What is it that is making these people set themselves so resolutely against the law of the land? What is it that they fear? What do they think might happen to them if they were to obey what the Supreme Court says is the law?

Article Cited

The answers, of course, are much too complicated to be discussed in a short article even if I were competent to discuss them, which I am not. But if you want to see them set forth, you might read an article by Herbert Ravenal Sass in the November, 1956, issue of the Atlantic Monthly. It's in the Monessen Public Library.

The Sass article apparently is regarded as an authoritative statement of the Southern position. It was reprinted in the Congressional Record, and a copy of the reprint came to me under the frank of Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, of South Carolina, an outspoken segregationist.

The article is entitled, "Mixed Schools and Mixed Blood". And the title is a clue as to what it is these people fear most.

They call it by different names like "miscegenation" and "mongrelization", but all mean the same thing. They are afraid that if white children and Negro children go to school together, before they are old enough to understand the necessity for keeping the races separate and therefore "pure", they will later intermarry and racial identity will disappear in this country.

Sass reaches this conclusion by way of some twisted logic and not a few self-contradictions. For example, at one point he says that racial separateness is instinctive in man as it is among birds and animals. But a few paragraphs later he is insisting that children don't have this instinct and have to be "protected" until it develops. I have always thought an instinct was something you were born with.

Hypocrisy Seen

Sass also trots out the old saw about how well the Southern Negro has been treated by his great good friend, the Southern white man, and how trustingly they had been living together until somebody started all this fuss about the schools. The hypocrisy of this is evident to anyone who spends 24 hours in the deep South.

But you could argue this question for a year and you could systematically demolish arguments like those marshalled in the Sass article, and you would still have left this rigidity that allows no compromise. Sass writes: ". . . Persistence in an attempt to compel the South to mingle its white and Negro children in its public schools would split the United States in two as disastrously as in the sixties and perhaps with an even more lamentable aftermath of bitterness".

That is pretty plain language. It reads very much like a threat of something serious. And this is represented to be an authoritative, reasoned statement of the Southern position!

I don't think it's true at all that if Negro and white children attend the same school, they are bound to start marrying each other. And anyway, I suspect this is but a rationalization. How do they explain denying the Negro the right to vote? Does voting lead to miscegenation, too?

Can We Continue?

But what bothers me most about all this is what may happen to the United States in the long run, say in another century, if we should have to give up making our Declaration of Independence and our Constitution mean what they say. "All men are created equal," we have said. And we seek a "more perfect union" in which all men stand equal before the law.

These are noble ideas, and they are the genius of America. Without these, we are just another collection of human beings. With them, we are a nation with stars in its eyes.

But what happens when we have to admit that these ideas are impossible — just words — and that we live under a false standard? Can America go on indefinitely saying one thing and meaning another? I do not think so.

Despite Snow, Signs of Spring Are All About

By JOHN H. DAY

Now that March has a foot in the doorway, and the lease of winter but two more weeks to run, the countryman watches jealously for every sign, every intimation of the advancing season. Winter still rules the landscape, and will probably emphasize the fact by dispatching Boreas with a snow storm or a blizzard or two. But the breath of spring has been in the air, even though the meadows may yet be white. The songsparrow caught up with the news several days ago, and the red maple blossoms now dangle just outside my office window.

I hauled a load of trash to a nearby dump one recent warm afternoon. Abandoned sweets of some sort had attracted a roving honeybee to a certain carton on this dump. She in turn had spread the word and when I came by there was a whole crew of busy little fellows active over the area with a roaring hum that sounded like mid-May in a wild crabapple tree.

The humming of these first honeybees is surely part of the vernal prophecy. Eager scouts leave the hive the moment they hear whispers of sweets and blossoms through on the trunk of the sugar in the air. Where the sap breaks maple a little swarm will soon be sipping at the dark stain. Zealous broods visit country wood piles, crowding each other in their eager tipple from the sweet fermented exudation on the end of a sun-warmed log.

The Pollen Hunter

They are not all to be found here. As the countryman watches the gathering swarm at the wood pile feast a newcomer speeds past his ear with an especially keen hum. There is no loitering at the oozing log this time. Over the dooryard and garden and across the roadway she goes, heading straight for the twiggy mist of the distant swamp. Another and another follow in her trail.

Soon the procession returns, each winged forager with saddlebags overflowing with golden grist. Here in March is a vision of summer in those rounded yellow thighs. The ground may be covered with snow, and flake ice may encrust the swamp edgings, yet here comes the summer bee already laying up her store of pollen. It will still be some weeks before the anemone and bloodroot blooms may be sought with confidence, but the honeybee knows where to find a pioneer blossom that is fast going to seed when these wood blooms first show their faces.

Following the eager pollen hunters the countryman seeks out the wet lowlands to get his first vernal greeting from the skunk cabbage, lowly hermit of the bog. Here he welcomes the prophet that pierces the snow, lifting barriers of ice to tell the message that he has received from mother-earth, long before the wood flower hears it from the south wind, or the lisp of the bluebird tells it to the trees.

Here is the real floral harbinger. It is not graced with perfume or blest with a poetic name. It certainly would not appear to advantage in a button hole. But the naturalized Italian bees have long welcomed it to their floral acquaintanceship and recognized the humble "prophet not without honor save in its own country."

Buds Swelling

The countryman watches the winter buds for advance word on the vernal awakening. On mild days in February they swell and their color deepens. His pulse quickens when he notes for the first time that the tree tops on the wooded hillside, gray and lifeless since November, are flushed with rosy color. The tops of the willows turn golden yellow. The brambles and many other shrubs take on deep red and purple tints.

The returning spring kindles renewed fire in the veins of all true countrymen. Thoreau found the season actually therapeutic. Said he — "Measure your health by your sympathy with morning and spring. If there is no response in you to the awakening of nature; if the prospect of an early morning walk does not banish sleep; if the warble of the first bluebird does not thrill you, know that the morning and spring of your life are past. Thus may you feel your pulse."

Valley Catholic Women's College Club Holds Meet

The March meeting of the Mon Valley Catholic Women's College Club was held in Donora at the new Elks Hall.

The Rev. William Troy, S. J., who is dean of Wheeling College, West Virginia, was introduced to the group by Margaret Marie Norton, of Fisher Heights. Father Troy described the facilities and curricula which are available at Wheeling College, which was established in 1954. Folders and pamphlets pertaining to the college, the first Catholic College, in West Virginia, were distributed.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by the president, Mrs. Rose Hughes, of Brownsville. Mrs. Hughes announced that the Rev. Bertin Roll, O. F. M. Cap., who is national director of the archconfraternity of Christian Mothers, will be guest speaker at the club's annual Guest Night. This annual affair will be held in May at the St. Thomas Aquinas Church hall in California.

Gives Report

The vice president, Mrs. Albert Stima, of Monessen, reported on the recent B'nai B'rith Women's President's Night which she recently attended in Monessen.

In keeping with the study theme of the year, the Lives of the Saints, the hostesses for this meeting reviewed the life of St. Francis Xavier Cabrini, a recent canonized Saint and the first American Saint. Participating were Mary DeCarlo, of Monongahela, the chairman; Emma Hughes, of Monongahela; Dorothy Matsco, Doris Joan McKee, Blanche McCormick, of Donora, and Margaret Marie Norton. The committee decorated the tables with African violets that were enclosed in white purple-trimmed paper ships. These ships represented an incident in Mother Cabrini's life. As a child she would sail ships filled with violets, and pretend that these ships were missionaries who she would send to different parts of the world. She accomplished this deed later in her life.

Quiz Conducted

Following the review of Saint Frances Xavier Cabrini's life, a quiz program was enjoyed. The members were divided into five groups, and the team led by Jean Peckyno, of Monessen, won. Other members of the winning team were Peg Might and Mary Simpson, of Charleroi, Edith Cacia, of Donora, and Lena Vaccaro, of Belle Vernon. All members received a picture of Mother Cabini. The serving of lunch concluded the program.

The next meeting will be held April 8, instead of April 1 as originally scheduled, in Monessen.

ON THE BALL

WPIAL Erred in Pottios Case

Did the WPIAL Basketball Committee err in not penalizing Charleroi High's Myron Pottios for his one punch bout the other night. This reporter, who has written many nice things about Myron, thinks so. Without doubt Pottios tossed his "sneak punch" in anger. Once his temper cooled, he was genuinely sorry. Still the misdeed was serious enough to merit some punishment. Moreover the WPIAL Basketball Committee has now established a rather embarrassing precedent. There seems to be no reason now why any disgruntled player can't sock a foe after the game is over. That is, providing he's a husky 200-pounder who can handle his dukes.

Just to keep the record straight, we wouldn't have recommended barring Pottios from the rest of the tournament. But it might have been wise to suspend him for a game, just to let the boys know that they're expected to play basketball, minus fisticuffs . . . On this subject, the WPIAL Committee also erred in telling Derry that a protest would be necessary from the school before action could be taken. That was a timid scheme to avoid the issue. The incident happened in full view of the WPIAL brass and there was no need for a school protest.

Reprimand Would Have Helped CHS

Unhappily the Pottios affair may seriously affect Charleroi's future chances in the tourney. Certainly the Cougars will have to cope with hostile crowds from now on. A WPIAL reprimand may have eased the situation somewhat, and thereby have actually worked to benefit the Cougars in the long run . . . Marion Klingensmith, former Brownsville professional boxer, will seek the Republican nomination for burgess in his hometown . . . The Washington High School varsity club has mailed $726.57 to the Richard Kadis Fund. The money was raised through a weekend tag day . . . Guard Dana Austin, of Uniontown, has been elected co-captain of the 1957 Slippery Rock football team. Donora's Pete (Ron) Bozik will serve as co-captain of the Lafayette College footballers next season.

* * *

Spring football drills at Penn State will begin Monday, March 18. Barring bad weather, coach Rip Engle hopes to wind up the 20 day practice period before the Easter holidays . . . Fred Uhlman, all-around Charleroi athlete who played for the Monessen Cro-Ams in basketball this season, is a first cousin of movie actress Shirley Jones, a native of nearby Smithton . . . "Hot Rod Hundley is the greatest college ball player I have ever seen," commented St. John's coach Joe Lapchick after his cagers absorbed a 105-72 licking at the hands of West Virginia.

Cougars Are Guests at MHS Gym

In reply to a query: Monessen does not charge Charleroi rental for the use of the Greyhound gym as a practice site. It is a courtesy the local school district extends to all other valley communities. However "outside" quints are tagged $10 to practice in order to cover the cost of lighting, cleaning and supervision . . . Pete Daley, successful Centerville High football coach, will assist Jeannette's A. Markley Barnes in grooming the West Penn all-Star squard for the annual Jaycees football game this August . . . Gene Hester, California Teachers athletic director and basketball coach, will be the guest speaker at tomorrow's Communion Breakfast at St. Sebastian Church in Belle Vernon. Guests of honor will be basketballers from Rostraver and Bellmar.

Today's Sports Parade —

Both Mantle, Snider Gunning for Record

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Mickey Mantle and Duke Snider, the major league home run kings, both are talking through their hats when they insist that they won't worry about trying to break Babe Ruth's record 60 homers this season but instead will try to fatten their averages.

You can bet your last paltry peso that if either one of them gets within striking distance he'll be swinging so hard he'll break his shoelaces.

It's no secret that hitters of this calibre can fatten their averages considerably by punching the ball. Willie Mays in 1954 had 34 homers at the All-Star break and, deciding to boost his .312 batting average after a confab with Leo Durocher, knocked only seven homers the rest of the season but won the batting crown with .345.

Ride In Cadillacs

It was only after his chances at Ruth's mark had gone down the drain last season that Mantle admittedly "quit swinging from the cellar" and went on to win the batting championship with his .353 performance. And Snider, who led the National League with 43 homers, could have bettered his lowly .292 average by not going for the fences. The answer is that home run hitters still ride in Cadillacs.

The National Basketball Association, to preserve the tremendous gains made by the professional sport, should do something to provide better balance. Currently, the last place New York team of the Eastern Division has won more games than the first place Fort Wayne team of the Western Division.

Following Famous Sires

There are 19 colts entered in this year's Kentucky Derby whose pappies won the run for the roses. Two of them, Exiled Ace and Manteau, are sons of Citation but neither is owned by Calumet Farm which sent the last triple crown winner to the races.

When Marquette track Coach Bus Shimek and ple vaulter Ed Hoyle arrived in New York for the IC4A games, they couldn't get a cab because of the 16-foot pole they toted. A policeman finally got them a lift but it altered Shimek's outlook.

"From now on," he says, "I travel only with high jumpers."

Pittsburgher Wins Navy Title

NEWPORT, R.I. (UP)—Francis Lee, of Pittsburgh, decisioned Richard Grassley, of Sharpsville, Pa., Friday night to win the 125-pound title in the Navy's world-wide boxing championships.

Lee, from the USS Cascade, took the title in a three-round final match at the Newport Naval Training Station here. Grassley represented the host station.

West Newton Bows, 54-36

No Match For Tough Aspinwall

Aspinwall advanced to the semi-finals of the WPIAL Class B basketball tournament last night by easily disposing of West Newton, 54-36, at the McKeesport Vocational gym.

More than 2,000 spectators looked on as the undefeated Cavaliers romped to their 22nd win of the season.

Aspinwall wasted little time in assuring the victory. The Cavaliers raced off to a 18-7 edge in the first period. By intermission, they were in front 32-13.

Coast Along

During the second half, Coach Al Lidsay's boys merely coasted along on the fat lead.

West Newton simply couldn't get along. In the first half, the usually accurated Hornets made only 19 per cent of their field goal efforts.

Meanwhile the Caaliers hit on 37 per cent of their tries.

Four of the winners hit for double-figures. Ted Williams had 13 points while Danny Frauenheim and Ed Hughes had 12 each and Bruce Broisus 11.

For the Hornets, Ray Johnston and Otto Leone each garnered 11 tallies.

Shannock Next

Aspinwall will meet Shannock Valley next in a semi-final test at tht Pitt Field House next Thursday.

In another Class B quarter-final last night, Snowden built up a lopsided first quarter lead of 25-11, then romped home to a 68-51 victory over Bethlehem Joint at the Donora floor.

Wilbur Stewart, Snowden's fine cager, took high scoring honors for the evening with 25 points. Steve Smoggie of Bethlehem was runner up with 21.

Pirates Open Against Phils In Exhibition

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates open a 32-game "Grapefruit League" series today against the Philadelphia Phils with a Pirate hopeful handling the opening mound chores.

Manager Bobby Bragan will send Bob Purkey, a try-out of last season who ended up in the minors, for the first three innings. Bonus babies Art Swanson and Laurin Pepper were picked to handle the remaining six.

Only three regulars from the 1956 Pirates will be in the lineup. Frank Thomas will hold down third base, and Lee Walls and Bill Virdon will be in the outfield.

Pitching duties for the Phils have been assigned to Jack Sanford, Don Cardwell and Jack Meyers.

Rain and cold winds, which have limited training at the Pirates Fort Myers, Fla., spring home mostly to indoor skull sessions and mud-hampered outings on the field, cut into practice again Friday during the last inter-squad game.

The play had to be called in the seventh inning with the Danny Murtaughs ahead of the Clyde Sukeforths, 5-2.

State Cage Hopefuls Dwindle Now to 32

By BURTON W. SIGLIN

Five of last year's district champions are still among the 32 teams remaining in the race for the statewide schoolboy basketball title.

Pittsburgh Oliver became the first 1956 district winner to retain its title when it hammered Peabody, 60-51, at the University of Pittsburgh Field House for the District Eight pennant.

The other four teams having a chance to repeat as district winners are Swoyersville (District 2); Reading (District 3); Altoona (District 6) and Palmerton (District 11).

Meadville, one of last year's district kings, was removed from contention by Erie Strong Vincent Friday night in a District 10 semi-final. The Erie team rallied from a seven point deficit at the end of the third quarter to overtake the Section Two titlists and win out, 74-69. Strong Vincent will play Grove City at Farrell March 16 for the district crown.

Swoyersville won its way into the finals in District 2 by tripping Ashley, 63-47, for the Northern League flag. The Sailors will meet the winner of Monday's Scranton Central-Nanticoke game in the district finals.

Tamaqua Eliminated

St. Clair's North Schuylkill League champions eliminated Tamaqua, winner in the Black Diamond League, 69-60, in a District 11 elimination. St. Clair goes against Palmerton at Allentown March 14 to decide the district crown.

Westmont roared in with 16 points before Johnstown scored and chalked up an easy 68-41 conquest in a first round District 6 contest. Westmont's next foe will be Purchase Line next Tuesday at a site still to be decided. In the other District 6 semi-final, Altoona and Portage will clash at Juniata College at Huntingdon.

Hanover won the South Penn title by blasting Chambersburg, 74-62, and moved directly into the District 3 finals to be played March 19. Reading and Boyertown clash March 15 at Albright College in Reading to decide the other finalist.

Only two Class "B" district championships have been decided. Forbes replaced Berlin as the District 5 titlist, while Elk Lake retained its District 12 crown.

Athens, 1956 District 4 kingpins, kept bright its chances of repeating by rapping Elkland, 90-75, at Waverly, N.Y. Friday night. Other Class "B" kings still in the running are Bristol (District 1); Columbia (District 3); Mercer (District 10) and Fountain Hill (District 11), the 1956 state champion.

Here are the scores in Class "B" and Class "C" playoff games of Friday night:

Snowden 68, Bethlehem Township 51 (District 7); Aspinwall 54, West Newton 36 (District 7); Dale 55, Lilly 34, (District 6); Girard 46, Conneaut Valley 44 (District 10); Sykesville 63, Sheffield 50 (District 9); Jim Thorpe 62, Cass Township 46 (District 11); Greene-Dreher 60, Lackawanna Trail 55 (District 12); Columbia 53, Susquehanna Township 49 (District 3); Palmyra 103, Porter-Tower 77 (District 3); Manchester 70, Newport 55 (District 3).

Tonight's contests find Rimersberg playing Karns City at Slippery Rock in a District 9, Class "B" test; Mercer and West Middlesex clashing at Farrell in a District 10, Class "B" game and Shenandoah and Schuylkill Haven meeting at Ashland in a District 11, Class "B" contest.

Pirates Search for Good Hitting Catcher

As Bobby Bragan begins his second season as skipper of the Pirates, the search is on for a hitting catcher and six pitchers to back up the front line of starters Bob Friend, Ron Kline, and Vern Law, and the League's ace reliefer, Roy Face.

"The biggest job here in camp here at Ft. Myers, Fla., is to find a catcher who can hit," says Bragan. "Danny Kravitz is undoubtedly the best hitter among the catchers, but both Hank Foiles and Dick Rand are fine defensive men and if either one of them pick up on their hitting the problem would be solved."

Kravitz was with the Pirates early last season and showed great promise as a power hitter, but also showed the lack of catching experience. He came up through the Pirates minor league system as an outfielder and was converted into a catcher in mid season of '55. This winter Danny caught in the Dominican Republic and both his manager, John Fitzpatrick, and Branch Rickey, Jr., report that his receiving has improved tremendously.

"Also, we can't overlook Harding Peterson," continues Bragan. "He was out all last season with a broken arm, but is completely recovered now. All he has to do is show me he can hit, because it's easy to move him from the Hollywood roster where he is now, onto the Pittsburgh roster."

Ten Pitchers

Switching to the other end of the battery, Bragan continues, "I'd like to carry ten pitchers. That means six other in addition to Friend, Face, Law and Kline."

Bragan was counting on help from Joe Trimble, before Dr. Joe Finegold, team physician, informed him that Trimble would be lost for several months following surgery on his knee. Dick Hall and Bob Garber, both with the Pirates last season but plagued with sore arms, are working hard to make the grade this season.

Stocky lefty Luis Arroyo, sporting a new screwball pitch, is hopping to ease Bragan's worries about his lack of lefthanded pitching.

"If Paul Minner's recovered from his back injury, he could easily be the surprise of our camp," says Bragan. The ex-Chicago Cub lefty shows no trace of back difficulties which sidelined him most of last season. "He has the control and has already proven he can win in the majors," says Bragan. "We could sure use him."

Other pitchers striving for one of those six spots on the parent club include Jackie Brown, of Elizabeth, Pa.; Clarence Churn, righthanded relief ace of the New Orleans Pelicans in '56; Nellie King, string-bean righthander bothered by a sore arm last year; free agent Jack Lamabe; curveballing Cholly Naranjo; former bonus baby Laurin Pepper; southpaw Roger Sawyer, and George Witt, with New Orleans last season.

Monessen Stars Finish Fourth In Tournament

Monessen's City League all-stars finished a poor fourth in the second annual Monongahela Booster Club Tournament which came to an end last night.

Donora's defending champions nipped Charleroi, 69-65 to win the two-day event.

Meanwhile Monessen took a terrible 87-51 beating from host Monongahela in the consolartion game.

The city cagers were just no match for the Monongahelans, who piled up whopping socring advantages in every period.

Mendola Scores 24

Jim Mendola led the victors twith 24 points. Sibby LoNigro chipped in with 21.

For Monessen, Jim Bricker was high man with a dozen points.

Dave Wunderlich, outstanding Donora dribbler, was named the tourney's most valuable player.

Big Six Track Meet Slated For May 3

The annual Big Six Track Meet will be staged Friday, May 3, at Brownsville.

For the first time in history, the event will probably attrack all six conference schools.

In addition to the usual entries — Charleroi, Donora, Brownsville and Monessen — the Meet will also attract Redstone and Monongahela this season.

Both schools have indicated that they plan to adopt track as a varsity sport.

The Meet will begin at 1:15 p. m. Brownsville is the defending champion.

This will be the seventh annual meet. Donora copped the first four and Brownsville the last two.

Once again medals for the winners will be supplied by the Mon Valley Sportswriters Association.

John Henck, of Brownsville, is president of the Valley Track Coaches Association. Clifford Jones of Monessen is vice-president; John Clark, of Donora, secretary; and Henry Penniine, of Charleroi, treasurer.

Canadiens Lose Star Left Wing

MONTREAL (UP) —Bert Olmstead, Montreal Canadiens' left wing who suffered a hair-line fracture of the ankle, will be lost to the club for two weeks. Earlier, it had been announced that Olmstead would be back in action in a week, but the ankle now is encased in a cast and will be kept on for about a week or 10 days.

Falenski Scores 28 Points as Trojans Register Easy Win

Derry Twp. — paced by Dick Falenski — eliminated Bellmar from the Westmoreland County Basketball Tournament last night by a 66-46 score.

There was no doubt that Falenski was the difference between the two teams. He scored 28 points and generally dominated things.

Falenski is the 6-2 operator who took a solid right hand punch from Charleroi's Myron Pottios following a WPIAL Tournament tussle earlier in the week.

Bellmar simply couldn't keep up with Falenski and his Trojan mates last night at the spacious Hempfield High gym.

The Canes fell behind 11-5 at the end of the first period and they were never able to catch up.

Ron Schmidt tossed in ten points for the winners, who played their third game in as many nights.

The AAU said the team, comprised of a coach and the winners in five weight classes, will leave from Los Angeles by boat July 5 and return home in late August.

A nine man Japanese team currently is touring the U.S.

Brtko's Auto Injures Youth

PITTSBURGH (UP)— A teenager was hospitalized today with a fractured arm suffered when he rode his bicycle into the side of an autombolie operated by heavyweight boxer Emil Brtko.

Police said James Pettus, 14, failed to stop at an intersection on the city's North Side Friday night and rammed into Brtko's car.

The boy was listed in fair condition at Allegheny General Hospital. No charges were filed against Brtko.

Ruling by Court Rocks IBC

Decision May Ruin Fight Club

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UP)—Uncle Sam apparently had the International Boxing Club on the ropes today and the situation was hailed with glee by independent promoters.

One of the sport's foremost legal "brains," who wishd to remain unidentified, said Judge Sylvester Ryan's decision in Federal Court that the IBC is a title-fight monopoly "unquestionably will result in a loss of IBC power—just how much I do not know."

He said it was nearly certain the decision would force Promoter Jim Norris to abandon entirely the IBC's policy of having contracts with champions for exclusive title services.

Split-Up Expected

"And," he added, "it's quite likely the government attorneys will demand and get a break-up of the IBC organization into at least three separate entities — instead of having the present one big set-up with interlocking directorates among the Madison Square Garden Corp., the IBC of New York and the IBC of Illinois."

Meanwhile, at Boston, promoter Sam Silverman said, "The decision will help independent promoters, like myself, and will help a lot of fighters and managers who want to be independent. You'll see a lot more fight clubs opening up."

Two promoters at Oakland, Calif., agreed. Jimmy Dundee said, "It's a good thing. Maybe it will stop the IBC from taking a boy away from you after you have built him up." And Frank Tabor said, "The decision is a boon to boxing. The IBC has hogged everything through the years."

When Judge Ryan ruled the IBC guilty of violating the anti-trust laws Thursday, no penalties were involved because it was a civil action.

Guilty On Three Counts

The judge found the IBC and its components guilty on all three counts of conspiracy, restraint of trade and monopoly of trade. Among the reasons for guilt, he said, were organizing for monopoly, and promoting, televising, broadcasting and filming fights in a monopolistic fashion.

Within the next 30 days government attorneys will appear before the judge and ask for changes desired in the IBC organization and operation. Also in those 30 days, attorneys for the IBC will try to show why the organization should continue with as few changes as possible. After that Judge Ryan will decide exactly what changes must be made.

Rostraver May Join Proposed New Class A Grid Conference

Principals of eight Westmoreland County Class A schools — including Rostraver — have laid the groundwork for a new football conference.

The school administrators met earlier in the week and selected a committee to draw up a tentative constitution.

Represented at the session in addition to Rostraver were Derry Twp., Ligionier, Hurst, Ramsay, Vandergrift, Penn Joint, and Scottdale.

Not Represented

North Huntingdon was not represented, but there were indications that the Bulldogs were interested.

Arnold, the tenth county Class A school, is a member of the Allegheny Conference and does not want to withdraw from that group.

Ray Ronco, of Scottdale, has been named acting chairman of the group.

Selected for the constitution committee were Clifford Naylor, of Rostraver; Major Stump, of Derry; and Dr. Mullin, of Hurst.

Another Meeting

This committee will meet next Tuesday at Hurst High school. The entire group will gather again on April 1 in Greensburg to discuss the tentative constitution.

At Rostraver, school officials indicated real interest in the proposed new league.

Byars Easily Upsets Hart

NEW YORK (UP) — Walter Byars, the stubby Boston welterweight whose "basketball speed" achieved the year's biggest ring upset, said today, "I'll fight anybody who'll draw money, preferably the champion."

Mustachioed Walt, the ex-Marine who was a 6-1 underdog before he snapped the 12-straight winning streak of sensational Sugar Hart before 2,400 at Madison Square Garden Friday night, attributed the victory to his remarkable speed and turtle-shell attack. It left Walt unbeaten in straight.

"I got my speed and elusiveness while playing basketball at Brandeis High School against taller fellows," explained Mr. Upset "And I figured out the turtle-shell offense on my own because I was always boxin' taller fellows while learning in the Marines."

Byars, weighing 144¾ pounds to Hart's 145¾, won the unanimous decision in lopsided fashion on a rounds basis: 6-2-2, 7-3 and 8-0-2. The United Press had Walt ahead, 6-4.

Oliver Earns Pittsburgh City League Crown

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Oliver High School again reigned as PIAA District 8 titlist today, thanks to a 27-point output by senior forward Cal Fowler which led the Bears to a 60-51 victory over Peabody Friday night for their second consecutive City League basketball championship.

Fowler, whose speed and ball-stealing tactics pleased 2,657 Pitt Field House spectators, broke away for three quick field goals to put his team ahead early in the second quarter, 18-17. After that, Oliver was never headed, although the Bears had trailed at the end of the first period, 16-10.

Oliver made good 28 of its 42 free throws while the Highlanders were scoring 13 out of 23. The Bears tallied on 16 of 34 field goal attempts for a 47 per cent mark. The losers chalked up only 31 per cent of their tries, scoring 19 out of 61.

Fowler's pacesetting 27 points were followed by Don Clisby's 19. John Wideman was top scorer for Peabody with 13 points and Marvin Levine was runnerup with 12.

Oliver led at the half, 30-24. The Highlanders narrowed the gap to 54-50 in the closing minutes, but their rally fell short.

In a City League consolation final Friday night South Hills defeated South, 44-32.

The District 8 champion holds a first round bye in the PIAA Western Regionals.

Oliver will see action next at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., March 23, when it meets the survivor of the District 9-10 playoff in a PIAA second round contest.

West Virginia Seeks Tourney Spot Tonight

By TIM MORIARTY

It will be "showdown night" in Dixie tonight when North Carolina and West Virginia seek to wrap up their respective tournament championships and the remaining open berths in the NCAA basketball jamboree.

In the final round of the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney at Raleigh, N.C., undefeated North Carolina runs into upstart South Carolina in what shapes up as an interesting scoring duel between two All-Americans—Lennie Rosenbluth of the Tar Heels and Grady Wallace of the Gamecocks.

Rod Hundley, another All-American, will lead West Virginia against Washington and Lee in the championship game of the Southern Conference Tournament at Richmond, Va.

Mountaineers, Tar Heels Favored

North Carolina and West Virginia rate as heavy favorites, although the tall and talented Tar Heels were almost bounced out of the ACC shindig Friday night by Wake Forest. However, Rosenbluth once again proved he is one of the nation's leading clutch players, pouring in three points in the final 46 seconds to earn North Carolina a 61-59 victory.

South Carolina followed up its surprise victory over Duke by downing second-seeded Maryland, 74-64, in their semifinal game. Wallace, the nation's leading scorer, poured in 31 points for the Gamecocks.

North Carolina already has beaten South Carolina twice this season, holding Wallace to only 11 points in their most recent meeting.

West Virginia earned its berth in the Southern Conference final by whipping Richmond, 83-62 while Washington and Lee turned back defensive-minded Virginia Tech, 68-54.

Hundley Tallies 17

Hundley contributed 17 points and a dazzling exhibition of playmaking for the Mountaineers, who are bidding for their third straight tournament crown. Lloyd Sharrar also had a big hand in the West Virginia triumph, scoring 20 points.

Washington and Lee couldn't solve Virginia Tech's zone defense in the first half of their game and left the floor at halftime trailing 27-26. But the Generals found the range with longshots in the second half and pulled away easily behind a 24-point effort by Dom Flora.

Elsewhere, Oklahoma A & M defeated Bradley, 68-53, snapping the NIT-bound Braves' 15-game winning streak on their home court, while Oregon State whipped Oregon, 75-62; Washington edged Washington State, 73-72, and California downed Southern California, 61-55, in Pacific Coast Conference action. California, already assured a berth in the NCAA Tournament, can clinch the PCC crown by beating Southern California again tonight.

Diplomatic Talk Over the Pope Pops Up Again

VATICAN CITY (UP)—The long debated issue of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Vatican popped up again today as a prelude to Vice President Richard M. Nixon's coming visit.

Nixon is to call on Pope Pius XII March 17. Reports in Italian Catholic circles said he was carrying a message from President Eisenhower mentioning the possibility of establishing diplomatic relatons for the first time in nearly a century.

American-Vatican relations have been an intermittent subject of debate in the United States since 1848 The first U.S. minister to the Holy See was appointed that year after a spirited discussion in Congress.

He was accredited to the Pope as the temporal ruler of the papal states, covering most of central Italy, rather than as a religious leader.

The U.S. legation was closed in 1867 when Congress failed to allocate funds to continu eit.

Three years later the Pope lost temporal power to the king of Italy. There have been no official relations between the United States and the Vatican since.

Children of Lions' Members Preside at Meeting Thursday

Sons and daughters of Fayette City Lions Club members were guests at a meeting held Thursday in the dining room of the Methodist Church.

The surprise of the evening came when children took over the duties of their fathers in key positions of the club.

Michael Richardson, son of the president, was in charge of the meeting. Cathy Dent was song leader. The invocation was given by Paul Preston Jesick.

Judy Gardner was tail twister and snipped ties and collected fines from most of those present. Richie McCrory was Lion tamer.

A tribute to fathers was given in a poem, read by Cynthia Hare, daughter of the treasurer, Jasper Hare. The Sutherland girls, a singing group from Speers, entertained.

Cathy Dent showed movies of a Lion-sponsored baby parade held in 1948. Linda Wilson and Richie McCrory, the king and queen of the parade, were both present. A movie of a May Day at Fayette City High School in 1944 was also shown.

A report on the amateur show was made by Don Stephens, chairman, who said that already nine have notified the club of participation.

Donations were approved to the polio, heart and Red Cross drives. Earnest Weaver was named program chairman for the next meeting.

A directors' meeting followed.

Mary Ann Puskas Honor Guest at Bridal Shower

Mary Ann Puskas was honored guest at a bridal shower Tuesday evening in the club rooms of the Fayette City Community Center. Mrs. David Portman and Mrs. Charles Yakim, aunts, were hostesses.

The rooms were decorated in pink, yellow and blue. A large umbrella and two sprinkling cans, decorated with the same colors, were placed over a huge table which held many gifts.

Games were played by more than 50 guests. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Harry Shanks, Nancy Lynn, Joan LaRue, Rose Homaniks, Marjorie Fergunson, Elizabeth Hutchinson, Eleanor Granglund, Anna Package, Helen Nemela and Sara Probspovitch.

Miss Puskas, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Puskas, of Navahoo Hollow Road, will become the bride of Clifford Carlson, son of Mr and Mrs. Clifford Carlson, California street, Fayette City.

They will be married on Thursday, March 14 in Winchester, Va. Miss Puskas was graduated from Bellmar High School in 1954 while Carlson was graduated from Marion High School in 1948.

Your Health—

Patient Parent Best Kind

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Most of you parents of young children probably have your hands full with the youngsters along about now.

The children are tired of being cooped up in the house for so much of the time during the cold weather. Around the age of three or four, they just naturally do things with great energy. And there are a great many things they want to do.

This is the time of life when teaching begins to play a very important role in a child's future. He learns more and learns it more easily if this teaching comes from someone he loves.

So let me caution you not to lose patience with your tot simply because he has been more or less underfoot all winter. Accidents and injuries are apt to result if you do.

Teaching a child safety habits, for example, shouldn't be neglected simply because it's easier to tell him not to do something after he already has done it.

Advising a youngster to "Stop that" after he has done something he shouldn't is a poor way of teaching him. It's a poor way of protecting him.

Keeping your youngster safe takes a lot of planning and forethought. So does teaching him safety fundamentals. Patient teaching by example does a lot more good than reminding a child that he has done something wrong.

Keeping him out of cabinets and rows of drawers, for example, can be accomplished easily if you simply pass a ruler or some other stick through the handles. Sharp knives and pointed utensils, of course, should be kept where a child can't reach them.

But this isn't enough. You've got to show the youngster how these utensils are used and what they are used for. In this way he comes to realize that they are not toys, but have a definite use and that there is a definite time for their use.

Question and Answer

C. L. What causes whiteheads and what can be done for them?

Answer: Whiteheads are caused by blocked ducts of the sebaceous glands of the face.

The face should be steamed and the whiteheads squeezed with a whitehead extractor, or with the fingers over which a clean towel has been placed.
